

Are we green enough?

We wanted to know if people in Slovakia are green enough. So we made a short survey. We asked people some questions about how green they are and what they do for environment.

Several people have gone to shop by bicycle or rollerblades, but the survey found that most people have gone to shop by car. Interviewed people said, that main reason why it is so is, that there in Slovakia is not many roads suitable for cycling and safe places to leave your bicycle.

In many shops you can get bags, so we asked people if they have reused these bags. A large number of interviewed people reused plastic bags for shopping, a small number of people have reused bags made of natural materials and only a few people have not reused bags for shopping.

A large number of people have preferred products from Slovak farms and factories. This number is growing up because of advertisements which are supporting by Slovak republic and companies.

However most people have picked up litter not only in their house, everybody has thrown away litter. In this way we are very tolerant and it is not good.

Eventually, we are on a good journey to have healthy environment, but we still do not do everything for it.
