

My dream home

I want a house in the suburbs, not so far from the city center, maybe just like 10 minutes by bus. I would like a big detached house with a yard. From the outside it would not look extravagant, just simple color like white, or really light yellow. It would not have a porch but i want terrace and balcony. In the inside it should have spacious room so for example to the living room i can put large couch and big TV, to the kitchen lot of cabinets with pantry. I want two floors, on each one there would be bathrooms. In these will be sinks, toilet and shower with lot of space. There also be a room called lazy room. You can read books and sitting on the sofas, or play video games, board games with your family or just relax next to fireplace. There will be as much bedroom as needed, like for parents, children and one guest room. I would like to put big wardrobes so you can fit in as much clothes as you want. But other than that the rooms will be decorated by each person. I will personally put some photos, posters and other decorations on the wall, have a bookshelf and a table.
